"I take great pleasure in saying that as Principal of the Boston Public Schools of Cookery, I have used several different makes of ranges, but consider the Crawford the BEST OF THEM ALL. It uses less coal and gives a more even heat than any range I have ever met with. So far as I can see, the CRAWFORD RANGE IS PERFECT."

A number of Negro and Indian graduates of the school also addressed the audience.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL

MERRIMACKS LOSE TO FORE RIVER.

At Burnham Park Saturday afternoon a large crowd turned out to see the champion Fore River team of Quincy play the Merrimack in a Merrimack Valley League game.

The weather conditions were hardly suitable for a good contest as a stiff wind blew across the field making good combined play an impossibility in the first half. The breeze died down in the second period, and the visitors got going with telling effect especially toward the close of the game when they scored two goals in quick succession, after fine displays of combinations and passing.

Fore River played with the wind in the first half yet in spite of this handicap Merrimack put up a stiff game, and it was only after thirty minutes of play that the visitors scored, a second goal following shortly afterward. Merrimack was several times in Fore River territory but the weak shooting of the forwards nullified all chances of scoring. Indeed all through the game the front line of the home team was poor and the bulk of the work fell on the defense. In this Clark and Mathew did brilliant work. The former especially played a magnificent game, and never let up a bit even when his team was fine down. He was the best man on the field Saturday. Campbell saved several good shots during the game but he had no off day as several of the goals scored against him were very easy ones.

For Fore River Artie and McGregor, and Lewis Nuttall and Forsythe played the best game, the passing of three last players being very good.

Capt. McGregor won the toss and Chadwick kicked off. Merrimack at once invaded Fore River territory but Artie cleared. The visitors got close to Merrimack's goal but the ball went behind. Each team attacked in turn and for twenty minutes the game was very even, Campbell saving a good shot from Lewis whose shooting for goal all through the game was of a very high order. Merrimack forced a corner off Artie but the kickout went behind. From the goal kick the shipbuilders began a vigorous attack on Merrimack's goal and two corners were granted in quick succession. Both were cleared but Fore River was not to be denied and a few minutes later McDonald opened the scoring.

Fore River was back at Campbell's goal and the latter held a good try for Forsythe at the expense of a corner which Nuttall converted into a goal, with a beautiful header. Just before half time, Campbell stopped a fine shot by McEwan.

Playing with the wind in the second half it was expected that Merrimack would score but except for three or four attempts which Lynch cleared, the home forwards were never dangerous. The Fore River forwards showed fine combinations, and Nuttall soon scored the third goal for his team. Clark and Mathew tried hard to stop the runs of the Fore River but they were too much for them although time and again they broke up their runs. Goals four and five were scored by Forsythe after splendid passing runs. Once McEwan had an open goal and missed most ludicrously. His play was not up to standard of the other four forwards and he was most unpopular with the spectators. Merrimack near the end of the game tried hard for a goal and peppered the Fore River goal but without effect, the being especially prominent in the defense.

W. Connors refereed the game very acceptably to both sides. The teams: Fore River—Goal, Lynch; backs, McAllister, Artie; halves, D. McDonald, McGregor, Connors; forwards, Forsythe, McEwan, Connolly, Lewis Nuttall. Merrimack—Goal, Campbell; backs, Smith, Paton; halves, Clark, Hughes; Mathew; forwards, D. McCluskey, Adams, Chadwick, Britton, J. Britton. Referee—W. Connors; linesmen, Fore River, Lynch; Merrimack, Barrows.

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no fat food that is so easily digested and assimilated as

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

It will nourish and strengthen the body when milk and cream fail to do it. Scott's Emulsion is always the same; always palatable and always beneficial where the body is wasting from any cause, either in children or adults.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

LYNN 3, METHUEN 1.

Methuen lost again in its league game with Lynn at Ocean Park, Saturday afternoon.

There was only a small turnout of spectators present. Methuen had the most of the game during the first half and kept the ball continually in Lynn territory. The splendid goal keeping of Birtwhistle and the fine defense of Russell and Turnbull prevented any scoring however. Lynn works up near the end of the half and fine passing by the forwards enabled McTavish to score a clever goal for his team. The half ended shortly after.

The second half was warmly contested, both sides having fine runs. Birtwhistle thwarted any attempts at scoring, his defense being very brilliant. Gillespie also played in great form and his playing greatly delighted the crowd. Russell, the irrepressible, did all the scoring in this half, both goals being gotten by his individual efforts. The second was a beauty, a slanting shot nearly 20 yards out completely beating Politt. Methuen's only goal was scored by Pat Jennings who as usual played a hard game for Methuen. The teams were:

Lynn—Goal, Birtwhistle; backs, Russell, Turnbull; halves, Kerr, Gillespie, Crabbe; forwards, Murphy, Devlin, Robinson, Horne, McTavish.

Methuen—Goal, Politt; backs, W. Briggs, Littlejohn; halves, Darcy, Lamb, Edleston; forwards, Jennings, Tait, Hamer, Walter Briggs, Ankers.

Referee, James Fraser; linesmen, Lynn, Williams; Methuen, Edleston.

ROVERS 1, QUINCY 0.

Boston Rovers and Quincy played a hard game in the Merrimack Valley league Saturday afternoon at Jamaica Plain which the former won by 1 goal to nothing.

Campbell had an off day Saturday. 15 to 1 was the record against the city clubs Saturday.

Fore River visits Lawrence for the third week in succession and will play Lawrence.

Russell of Lynn can do stunts in goal getting as evidenced by his two against Methuen Saturday.

Strange as it may seem Williams kept a fine goal at Andover despite the big score against him.

The language of some of the spectators at the Fore River-Merrimack game, who took umbrage at a decision of Umpire Connors was most vile.

An effort will be made to play a game on Brothers field, Andover, if permission can be obtained from the academy authorities, between Fore River and Andover, to illustrate the game to the academy boys.

Andover goes to Lynn next Saturday and a battle royal will take place, as only one point separates the two teams. If D. Falconer is able to play the following team ought to give a good account of itself: Goal, O'Connell; backs, Rennie, W. Black; halves, Sirling, Haddadon, K. Anderson; forwards, Ros, Welch, Dukers, Poland Falconer. If "Doug" is unable to play the team of last Saturday will do.

NOTED LAWRENCE MAN'S VIEWS ON FOOTBALL.

In view of the present demand for a reform in football, it is interesting to recall what Mr. Samuel J. Elder, a prominent Yale man, wrote on this same subject 14 years ago.

When the appended article was written, Frank Hinkley was just beginning his career as a football player. Mr. Elder's comment could very well apply to the present condition of affairs. His article was as follows:

The close of the football season emphasizes the good and bad points of the Americanized Rugby game. It cannot be doubted that the immense growth in favor, and the great attendance at the leading games, prove merit in the game itself. I quite agree with Mr. Powers in all that he says with regard to the character of the contest. When well played, slugging is largely eliminated, and skill, science, endurance and pluck are elements of success. At the same time, even in the legitimate game, brute force is a large factor, and hence a considerable proportion to the elements above enumerated.

As a spectacle, the game is not a success. The men are constantly massed in positions which half the time prevent the spectator from seeing the ball before it is put in play, and none but those close at hand and skilled in its points can determine exactly the manœuvre which is made. Every few minutes the players are a mass of struggling arms and legs on the ground in hopeless confusion and nothing but the mere fact of whether the ground has been gained or lost is left to excite the spectator's enthusiasm. Occasionally, a fine run around the end brings out unstinted applause and is fully appreciated by the spectator, or along kick finely followed enables the spectators to see what is going forward. Aside from this, the game lacks entirely the spectacular interest of baseball, where the movement of the ball is constantly in sight, and the special play of each player is observed by all.

Of course it is too late now to influence or effect a change but it is greatly to be regretted that the American colleges did not adopt from England the Association game instead of the Rugby Union game. It seems to have been merely an accident that they did not as the Association game was first received and played here. In 1871 T. S. Schaff, who fitted for college abroad, joined the class of '73 at Yale, and introduced the Association game. A number of contests were played between Rutgers, Columbia, Princeton and Yale in '72, '73, '74 and '75, substantially according to the Association rules. In '75 Harvard, then playing a modification of the Rugby game, challenged and defeated Yale, whose team was attempting to play in the same season both games.

It seems to have been the sting of this defeat which stimulated Yale to play the game at which she had been beaten by Harvard and to abandon the association game and within a year or two the other colleges followed suit.

A few words with regard to the Association game may not be out of place. It differs radically from that played at Rugby and by the members of the Union in England. Instead of carrying the ball toward the opposing goal, all progress is made by kicking it or striking it with the hand, no one but the goal keepers being allowed to pick it up. The players are scattered over the field, so that the motions and work of each man can be seen and appreciated. Long runs are frequently made, the runner "dribbling" the ball in front of him; that is, kicking it a few feet, but not far enough to enable any opposing player to reach it before he does. The cleverest kind of dodging is done, both the man and the ball being to elude advancing opponents. Tackling or use of the hands is not allowed and the runner can be stopped only by colliding with him. In these respects interference is of course of the most serious and is brought to the Highest point. Kicking is in constant use. Long kicks down the field, swiftly followed by the forwards, and accurate passing of the ball from player to player by short kicks.

It will be readily seen that the ball makes rapid progress from one part of the field to another, and that the points of interest which are occasional in the Rugby game are the rule in the Harrow, Winchester and Association game. The spirited pictures of association playing, of which we see copies in this country, give a good idea of the interest of the game. Scrimmages, of course, occur, but the men are erect, and not wallowing upon the ground, and the instant the ball is out of the mass it is off up or down the field.

Not only is the game a better spectacle than the Rugby game, it is better for the player. The incessant personal antagonism of lining up, bucking against the men in the opposite line, the advance by mere weight and brute force, the heavy throwing of the runner and falling upon him by half a dozen players, are entirely absent. In other words, force is concentrated upon the ball and not upon the opposite players.

There is not, it is true, the same opportunity for tricks. The ball is well in sight, and it is difficult to delude the opposing side as to what is to be done with it. Feints and swift passes are possible, and thoroughly scientific tactics are always studied. The skill required in kicking, running and passing must be conceded to equal the skill in Rugby playing.

It is not claimed that the game is free from danger. Accidents certainly occur. These are chiefly from collisions and falls, and are inevitable in any rough game. But the men are not spinning by the constant assaults in lining up and breaking through, or given chances for reprisals by falling heavily upon the man with the ball and crushing the fight out of him by grinding him into the dirt. The spectators are relieved from the constant nervousness about the man at the bottom of the heap. It is an upright game and not a prostrate one.

No one will claim, however, that it does not call for pluck and coolness. A strong, skillful kick on the run, just the fraction of a second before a powerful opponent reaches you and sends you spinning to the ground, is not a child's play, and the game has the advantage that light, active skill is not of less account.

"You opera singers are all jealous, aren't you?" quizzed the friend of the prima donna.
"Oh, no," replied the prima donna. "Lots of us have sang in church choirs."—Philadelphia Record.

From London Truth.

Apologies of some recent remarks of my contributor "Madge" on female smokers, a lady gave me the other day two reasons against this practice. The first is that smoking develops the mustache, a fact which, she told me, is well known by small boys, and is at once the cause of juvenile smoking in the one sex and the alarming development of mustaches in the other.

Secondly, smoking produces at any rate in women, "weak-rimmed eyelids," for which reason, said my informant, "in a mixed assemblage of women it is easy to pick out the smokers by the ugly pink tinge of the eyelid edges." Assuming the facts to be accurate, the question still remains whether women will consider their arguments against the use of tobacco. Are mustaches and pink eyelids to be considered a disfigurement or an ornament? One never can tell. In different ages and places—from Paris to Polynesia—many means of improving their appearance have been adopted by women. Men may pretend to ridicule these artificial charms, but they end by falling victims to them. Which shows that women know their own business best.

FAMOUS LEAD MINE
DISCOVERED BY A MULE

From the Detroit News-Tribune.
Half the lead that has been mined in the U. S. has come from the famous Cœur d'Alene, the most productive lead mines in the world. Like many of the richest mines, they were discovered by pure luck. A man lent his mule to two prospectors. In the course of their wanderings the mule was tied to a tree, and he, becoming impatient, pawed the ground and uncovered a lead vein, which is now the site of the famous Bunker Hill Sullivan mine. The owner of the mule sued for a third interest in the claim, and the courts granted it to him, stating that as the mule had made the discovery, and that, as he was its owner, he was entitled to the mule's share.

The three owners sold their discovery for $500,000 and nothing was too good for that mule for the rest of his days. He was exhibited in a private car and lived on the fat of the land and now a tombstone marks his grave. His harness hangs in a noted saloon, where it is gazed upon with deepest reverence by the old-time prospectors.
The mine is the richest silver-lead mine in the world, yielding a net revenue of $1,500,000. Since their discovery in 1884 the Cœur d'Alene mines have produced nearly $200,000,000 in gold, silver and lead.

A Sorosis Lesson

WHAT is a fit in an ordinary shoe is not a fit in Sorosis; they do not stretch. The shoe is built to fit its counterpart in the human foot. The lesson taught us by experience is that a woman once perfectly fitted in Sorosis never changes. She is more than satisfied; in fact has practically her own private last.

Sorosis stores: New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington, Baltimore, St. Louis, Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, etc. Foreign shops: London, Dublin, Glasgow, Leeds, Birmingham, Paris, Berlin, Hamburg, Frankfurt-on-the-Main, etc.

KEEPING TAB ON THE WORLD

The Czar's Self Effacement and Grant of Civic Liberties Come Too Late to Head Off Revolutionary Spirit—Terrible Massacre of Jews—State and City Election Results Anticipated Calmly—American Missionaries Murdered in China—Message From King Edward.

FOREIGN

Norway Invites Prince Charles.

The Norwegian storting by a vote of 87 to 29 adopted the proposition of the government that it be empowered to negotiate with Prince Charles of Denmark, with the understanding that the wishes of the people be consulted by referendum. On the same day the union flag was struck through Sweden, and the ancient ensign of a century ago was everywhere displayed and saluted. The government at Washington received Mr. Hauge as charge d'affaires for Norway.

Chinese Attack Admiral Train.

While Rear Admiral Charles J. Train, commander of the American Asiatic fleet, and his son, Lieutenant Charles R. Train, were gunning for pheasants outside of Nankin, China, the admiral chanced to hit a Chinese woman with bird shot. Soon hundreds of natives gathered and mobbed the American officers, taking away their guns, resisting the American escort sent to the rescue and retaining Lieutenant Train as hostage. The alarming feature of the incident, however, was that the local Chinese officials supported the action of the mob in attacking the admiral and capturing his son. Prompt reparation was made by the Chinese government.

Czar Surrenders to People.
After virtually the whole Russian people had taken either active or passive part in the revolt against the system of absolute and autocratic government centering in the person of the czar, the present wearer of that exalted title, Nicholas II., under the unanimous advice of his ministers, formally signed, Oct. 23, a full and explicit surrender of his autocratic power and grant of a constitutional form of government.

The czar's manifesto, in brief, proposes, first, "to co-ordinate and unify the powers of the central government" by granting the population inviolability of person and freedom of conscience, speech, union and association; second, to permit all classes of the population to have a share in the election of the coming national assembly, and, third, by making the rule that no law can come into force without the approval of the parliament and that the said legislature shall have real participation in supervising the acts of the czar's ministers. The government must not resist the decisions of the duma. The czar promises to avoid repressive measures as to everything which does not openly menace society.

As if in confirmation of the czar's sincerity, the appointment of Count Witte as president of the committee of ministers, or premier, was published on the same day in the Official Gazette. However sincere may have been the czar's desire at this critical moment "to efface" himself, the actual word used in his manifesto, and notwithstanding the concessions thus granted, the revolutionary spirit of large sections of the country appears to have been little, if any, checked by this eleventh hour surrender. On the contrary, it served only further to inflame that spirit by demonstrating the utter weakness of the autocracy. There were scenes of rejoicing in St. Petersburg and Moscow, and, after some hesitation, the strikes at those cities were declared off, and many of the men returned to work, but throughout south Russia, Russian Poland and Finland the revolt became open and universal. Pillage and massacre became the order of the day at Odessa, and the horrors of Kishineff were repeated a hundredfold, it being reported that 5,000 Jews were slain by the mob, assisted by the troops. Everywhere the demand was made for amnesty, and a partial measure was granted. Press censorship was abolished. Demands were also made for land grants to peasants. The massing of German forces along the Russian frontier gave color to the report that the kaiser was preparing to lend aid to the czar. The resignation of M. Pobedonostzeff, procurator general of the holy synod, who for years has been the chief obstacle to liberal progress in Rear Admiral Train.

Russia, was a further sign of the collapse of the bureaucracy.

American Missionaries Murdered.

A party of American missionaries at Lienchau, a Chinese city 200 miles inland from Canton, were attacked by the natives, according to a report received at Hongkong, the Rev. Mr. Peale, Mrs. Machie and her daughter, Dr. Chestnut, being murdered, while Dr. Machie and Miss Patterson escaped with wounds. The mission buildings were destroyed.

POLITICAL

Both Parties For Roosevelt?

Walter Wellman, the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald, writes that leading politicians are now predicting that Roosevelt will be nominated by the Democrats and endorsed by the Republicans for president in 1908. He says that a movement in this direction has already been launched as the outcome of the president's triumphal tour of the south. He calls to witness a number of leading Democrats from the south who favor this course, which, it is thought, would absolve Roosevelt from his pledge not to be a candidate again.

Setback For City Ownership.

On two test votes in the city council of Chicago, Mayor Dunne and the proposition for immediate municipal ownership of city street railways were defeated by more than two to one.

Gillette Report Lifts Veil.

The report of Major Cassius Gillette, the army engineering expert, and John D. MacLennan, employed by Mayor Weaver to investigate the work of Philadelphia's contracting combine in connection with the city filtration plant, has disclosed the fact that with a 20 per cent allowance for profit the work that has been done should have cost $6,330,000 less than it did, and in spite of this much of the work has been of second class quality. Besides, the experts accuse the combine with being responsible for at least 1,200 deaths from typhoid in the last twenty months, since the date when the plant might have been completed. It is shown how outside contractors never had notice of the lettings and how contracts were improperly drawn so as to limit the bidding to the favored concerns.

Dead Cashier Blamed Andrews.

It is known positively that Cashier Clark of the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny prior to his suicide had written a letter to his family in which he laid the blame for his financial condition on W. H. Andrews, the New Mexico delegate whose railroad schemes had been kept going on capital loaned by Clark's bank. The federal bank experts say that this failure is the worst on record and that the bank's $2,800,000 of assets were completely wiped out.

A Hot Windup at New York.

The last week of the vote hunt at New York developed into one of the most exciting battles that the city has witnessed in many years. It was conceded on all sides that McClellan had no walkover, and the widespread enthusiasm shown for Hearst frightened Tammany almost into a panic, so that the full power of its organization was brought into action. In its effort to stem the Hearst rising the Tammany managers made at least one serious blunder in using the American flag for political purposes on banners alongside the red flag of anarchy, attributed to Hearst, followed by the question "Under which flag?" This was in direct violation of the law, and it was recognized by Mayor McClellan himself, who promptly ordered all of the banners down. This, however, was not until after numerous riots had occurred, during which some of the offensive banners were torn down. It was, in fact, part of the Democratic plan to raise the cry of anarchy against Hearst by recalling the charge that his newspapers were indirectly responsible for the assassination of President McKinley. Nearly all of the papers and the betting odds for a week past indicated the triumph of District Attorney Jerome over the machinations of the bosses. Mr. Ivins, the Republican candidate, insisted that the strength of the municipal ownership movement would mean so large a defection from Tammany that the ordinary Republican vote would elect him mayor. He insisted on making the same kind of a fight that Jerome was making against party bossism. The Hearst managers offered large rewards for the conviction of illegal voters, charging extensive plans to defraud through illegal registration. They made answer to the charge of private property confiscation by saying that Hearst's election would mean the end of private confiscation of public property.

EXECUTIVE

A Messenger From King Edward VII.

Prince Louis of Battenberg, the bearer of a special message from the king of England to President Roosevelt, arrived at Annapolis, Md., on board the warship Drake and was received with royal honors by the American naval officers and by Governor Warfield of Maryland. A reception was given in his honor at the White House when he reached Washington.

President in Wireless Touch.

The sea voyage of President Roosevelt from New Orleans ended with his safe arrival at the capitol on the cruiser West Virginia. During the entire voyage he had been in almost constant touch with land by means of wireless telegraphy. While his ship was in the gulf of Mexico a wireless message was received at the Washington navy yard. Messages were also received as far inland as Cleveland, O. During the trip the president took the greatest interest in every detail of the ship, even shoveling coal under the boilers to please the stokers.

Public Printer Appointed.

Charles A. Stillings of Boston has been appointed public printer of the United States. His residence recently has been New York city, where he was manager of the printers' board of trade. He is thirty-two years old and has been in the printing business for sixteen years. He was endorsed not only by the Massachusetts senators, but by many printing houses.

The Remedy For Desertions.

During the year ending June 30 there were 6,523 desertions from the enlisted force of the army, which is 8.8 per cent of the whole number, as compared with an average of 4.5 per cent for the ten years ending 1904. Speaking of this evident increase in desertions, General Alnsworth, the military secretary of the army, said that the only real remedy is for the public to socially ostracize the deserter and treat him as a criminal. Some of the reasons given for the increase are the abolition of the canteen, the monotony of garrison life, the greater amount of study and work required and the ability to obtain good employment in civil life, but General Alnsworth believes that the principal cause is "that Americans are not a military people."

The actual strength of the military establishment on June 30 was 3,800 officers and 57,433 men in the regular army; 26 officers and 550 men in the Porto Rican provisional regiment and 108 officers and 5,063 enlisted men in the Philippine scouts, making a total of 3,934 officers and 63,022 men.

In Defense of Navy Uniform.

Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte has dismissed from the service the employee of the Norfolk navy yard who refused to lease a room in his house to a machinist's mate of the reserved torpedo flotilla on account of the neighborhood's prejudice against all Jack tars. He says that the department has always done everything in its power to protect the service from any form of affront or indignity "on the part of those members of the community who are so lacking in patriotism and good sense as to consider the uniform a reason for social discriminations against its wearer."

Moro Leader Slain.

Captain McCoy and a detachment of the Twenty-second Infantry and the Fourth cavalry ended a ten day campaign against the Moro insurgents of Mindanao with a fight in which the rebel leader, Datto Ali, and eleven of his followers were killed, two of his wives and forty-three of his henchmen captured. The American loss was two men killed and one wounded.

SOCIOLOGICAL

Amalgamation as God's Plan.

In a meeting at Washington attended by a majority of the Methodist Episcopal bishops Bishop John William Hamilton of San Francisco declared that the typical American of the future would be born of the amalgamation of all the races and that those very persons who are today proud of what they call their Anglo-Saxon blood will be great-grandparents of men and women partly Japanese, Chinese, Russian Jew, southern European and dusky African. Some of his hearers were so offended that they left the church, but the bishop went right on and said it was God's plan that race prejudices in time should be wiped away and that the American of the future would have become "the composite type of all the races of the earth."

Doctors War on Quack Ads.

At its one hundredth anniversary meeting the Medical Society of New York passed resolutions protesting against what is regarded as "this criminal alliance between quacks and certain newspapers in the city and elsewhere" and declaring that in the courts of honor and conscience and morals, if not in the courts of the law, the newspapers that publish these false and filthy advertisements "are in nowise less guilty than these charlatans themselves." The society also tenders thanks to the Ladies' Home Journal and Collier's Weekly for their recent effort to expose this criminal alliance.

President H. G. Bryant of the Geographical Society of Philadelphia announces that two of the Bryant-Melville expeditions which were set adrift several years ago in the polar sea have been found and that their path proves the existence of a current from Bering strait around the circumpolar basin to the Atlantic ocean.

ANDOVER-EXETER GAME.

The Phillipsian says of the Andover-Exeter game:

Next Saturday comes the great game of the season, the Exeter game. It will be played at Exeter this year and a special train will leave here about 12.40, returning after the game. The game this year promises to be one of the closest and most exciting games ever played between the two academies. A comparison of the two teams will show the cause for this.

At centre the teams are about equal, though Exeter has a greater advantage in weight.

At guard there is the same situation, Exeter having the advantage in weight and also because her guards are old men, while Andover's are both new.

At tackle Andover has the advantage, because of the superior speed and defensive work of her men.

Exeter has a marked advantage at end, as both her men have played in former Andover-Exeter contests, while Andover's men had to be developed this year.

Andover has a faster man at quarter-back, but Exeter has the wonderful Hart at left half. In other respects the backs are about equal.

Exeter is a rather strong favorite this year, owing to the large number of old men she has back and the success she has had in preliminary contests. On the other hand, Andover started the season with only three regular A men back, and has had to develop a team from last year's substitutes and class teams and from new material. Exeter also has a big advantage in weight, averaging between ten and fifteen pounds more to the man. However Andover is not discouraged but will fight all the harder. The probable line-up will be:

Andover	Exeter
Pierce le	re Gilroy
Capt. Hobbs lt	rt Powers
Jackson lg	rg Seldon
Austin c	c Conney
Uncertain rg	lg Capt. McFadyen
Avery rt	rt Huntton
Uncertain re	le Vaughn
Merritt qb	qb Bergin
Murphy lbh	rb Barry
Bartholomew rlb	lbh Hart
Daly fb	fb Wetzel

The special train to Exeter will leave about 12.40 p. m. Saturday.

PHILLIPS ANDOVER 16; SPRINGFIELD T. S. 0.

Phillips Andover defeated Springfield Training school 16 to 0 Saturday afternoon. All the scoring was done in the first half. Andover showed a strong attack and had little difficulty in working her way down the field. In the second half Springfield improved and kept the ball in Andover's territory most of the half. The visitors got the ball to the ten yard line twice but lost the ball once on a fumble and once on downs.

Springfield had a good trick of backs, Mason at full back, proving to be their best ground gainer. Peckham was successful in "end around end" plays until Andover got on to the formation.

While Andover defeated a strong team, disappointment went with the victory, for during the game several of Andover's best players were injured. With the Exeter game only a week off this puts a damper on Andover's hopes. Fisher injured his ankle, Bartholomew his head and Greenough and Daly had to be taken out early in the second half. The summary:

Phillips Andover	Springfield T. S.
Pierce le	re Peckham
Hobbs lt	rt Briggs
Jackson lg	rg McGuire
Austin c	c Wright
Greenough rg	lg Marks
Avery rt	rt Kern
Fisher rt	Gunning rt
Kilpatrick re	le Gray

Score: Phillips Andover 16, Touchdowns, Avery, Murphy 2. Goal from touchdown, Bartholomew; umpire, Dr. Page; referee, O'Connell. Linesmen, Hudson and Cobb; timer, Pointer; time 25 and 20m halves.

There are four Andover men on the Yale eleven and five more men from the academy among the leading substitutes. The statistics of the team and substitutes are appended:

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1905.The Election.

So far as we can recall, the vote of Tuesday was the largest ever cast in Andover on an "off year". With no fuss and less arousing than usual, there seemed to be something that pulled out the voters. The result should be considered eminently satisfactory to the Republicans in the vote secured by both of the leading candidates, and it is even more so to the aspirants for lesser honors, for they almost universally fared even better than did either Guild or Draper.

It is to be regretted that a recount is considered necessary on the vote for lieutenant-governor. Recounts are always unsatisfactory and seldom answer any other use but to give an opportunity for one side or the other to draw conclusions as to why a voter cut one man and chose another. They almost never make changes in the results.

Among the most satisfying features of the election were the three men who have been chosen to the offices of Councillor, County Commissioner, and Senator, and to whom Andover gave most loyal support. It is no disparagement to the other honorable gentlemen, who have been members of the Governor's council from this district, to congratulate the District and the State upon the choice of the Hon. A. E. Cox, of Malden, as councillor. A business man of splendid achievement, a gentleman of fine character, he will make a wise councillor and valuable assistant to Governor Guild.

Hon. Moody Kimball, as county commissioner, will "make good" all the expectations of his friends. He has had good training for the office, and without any show he will do things that will count in improving the administration of county affairs.

Senator Cox is an untried quantity in public office, but not an unknown one in public affairs. He has been splendidly endorsed, and his friends anticipate for him a career of good service.

THE REPRESENTATIVE VOTE.

The writer had not thought to say anything about the vote for Representative on the ground that "least said, soonest mended", but in the belief that the best way for public questions to be considered is in the open, it seems wisest to briefly touch this question. The vote in North Andover was no surprise to those who realized the deep feeling that had been aroused in our sister town over what some excellent gentlemen over there considered an infringement of their rights. The independent candidacy was born out of that feeling, and thrived upon exaggerated stories regarding it. The writer absolutely refused to make any special effort to combat the prejudice aroused, and left the case entirely in the hands of the North Andover voters. To the friends there who supported him the writer expresses his deepest thanks, for their votes represented convictions that the influence of the deep-seated prejudice could not shake. To those who opposed there is no word to be said other than in the kindest spirit. If there can come from the next year's service any honor, it may perhaps lead to a better understanding; if there shall be no other service than a fourth year, giving of the best that is in the chosen one, even then the writer believes that there will be a step made toward healing what some have felt to be a breach.

The vote in Andover was a surprise to nearly everybody. It was a surprise because it had been fostered silently, and because it gathered together so completely all the elements that have for one reason or another always opposed the Republican candidate. Added to those were a goodly number of Andover men who had been led to believe that the No. Andover view was right, and who did not understand the real attitude of the Andover candidate. Here again the writer has no criticism to make, and regarding it, there is no feeling but the kindest. He feels that they failed to understand the true situation, and that is all. He believes that some day they will give to him the same credit for the honest intentions that they claim for themselves, and that some day they will see that the District has secured better service through the acts of the past few months, in which has been brought about freedom from a slavery to rotation in office.

Editorial Cinders.

What a joy a man's friends are! How they shine out like a golden sunset that makes a glow that is indescribable in the coloring of a world that never looked just that way before. Aye, but they are good, are real friends!

First down and five yards to gain. That's the story of the teams, and tomorrow marks the last chapter on the Andover book devoted to it. Play hard, tackle low, be men and gentlemen, and may the best team win at Exeter, — and may the best team be A-N-D-O-V-E-R.

ELECTION IN ANDOVER.Heavy Vote Cast for an Off Year. Entire Republican Ticket Endorsed.

The state election was held on Tuesday. Although not a presidential year the interest was intense over the governorship and the lieutenant governorship, as well as some of the other less important offices.

In Andover the election passed off very quietly although an exceptionally large vote, for an off year, was cast. The weather was somewhat unfavorable for an election, a heavy drizzle falling most of the day. In the early morning the sun shone brightly but it was soon hidden behind dark clouds and by noon the rain had started. Considering this fact the vote was much larger than was anticipated by even the best informed.

As is generally the case most of the votes were cast between the hours of ten and two, 367 ballots being cast between these hours.

The polls were opened at half past six by the proper officials and at that time there were a few ready to drop in their ballots with their candidates duly marked. The first one to vote was J. H. Hovey.

The nine following were: Otis P. Keith, W. H. Barton, F. L. Cole, James Abercrombie, Charles W. Damon, W. H. Gibson, John M. Holt, William B. Morse, Henry R. Sweeney.

The total number of ballots cast was 311 and were cast between the following hours: at 7:30 131, at eight 181, at nine 250, at ten 326, at eleven 400, at twelve 470, at one 525, at two 693, at three 761, at half past four 811.

The greatest fight was between Eben S. Draper and Henry M. Whitney for the office of Lieutenant Governor. It was generally conceded by the Democrats and by a good many Republicans as well that the latter would be elected. It was a close fight however, and with Mr. Draper won by a safe margin. With Mr. Draper the entire state ticket was elected.

Late in the morning the local counters were set to work sorting and counting the ballots and the work was kept up until shortly after five o'clock when the result was announced. The following men who have served in the capacity of counters for several years were again at the tables: David Leslie, Patrick Dwyane, Michael Welch and George W. Foster.

The following election officers served: F. H. Hardy, warden; W. A. Allen, deputy warden; D. J. Moynihan, clerk; Daniel A. Collins, deputy clerk; Louis A. Dane, inspector; W. J. Doherty, inspector; Timothy J. Mahoney, deputy inspector; J. Frank Morse, deputy inspector; J. P. Keane, clerk; E. Matthews, warden; W. B. Hodgkins, deputy warden; Owea F. Caffrey, clerk; Michael J. Flaherty, deputy clerk; C. Northy Marland, inspector; Martin McKeon, inspector; John S. Dearborn, deputy inspector; Henry W. Platt, deputy inspector.

Treat Hardware & Supply Co.Brechin Block. Essex Street. Lawrence.*An Historic Anniversary.*Second Annual Dance.

In September, 1830, there was formed in the West Parish of Andover what is now one of the oldest Juvenile Missionary Societies in this country. Started originally in connection with the Sunday school of the West Parish church, its lines have gone out unto the ends of the earth.

The early records are full of interest; the quaintness of the expression and the solidity of the exhortations to the children give an exquisite flavor of the past to these accounts of early meetings, while the minutes give to anyone interested in the history of our town glimpses of the lives of many of the saintliest and noblest men and women of that day.

The Society was formed "at a meeting of a class of young misses" because it was felt it was "highly important while the character is forming to call into frequent exercise the principle of benevolence." The time at the meetings "shall be spent in making any kind of salable articles, the avails of which shall be appropriated to the support of an Indian child." Each young lady must pay "twelve and a half cents a year." "The superintendents shall be adult ladies." "It shall be the duty of every member to earn her subscription money if possible."

The Seventy-fifth anniversary of this society is to be held in the West church on the Sunday after next (Nov. 19th) at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Invitations have been sent to former members. The Society desires all who have ever been connected with it or who are interested in the origins of church life and mission work in Andover to join with them on that day.

Good Templars Entertainment.

The local lodge of Good Templars held an entertainment in Abbott Village hall, last evening when the hall was filled with members of the lodge and friends. There was a large delegation of visitors from North Andover, Lawrence and Methuen and some of the visitors assisted in the entertainment.

The delegation from Methuen presented a play entitled, "Hiring Out," which was one of the hits of the evening. Each of the actors took his part in a clever manner and the audience showed their appreciation in a hearty applause. The following was the cast: Mrs. Tufts, Mrs. Mervin; Emma her daughter, Miss Jennie Colquhoun; Bridget Rooney, Miss Edith Cushman; Nora McCarthy, Miss Agnes Colquhoun; Helen Flynn, Edith Bryson; Johanna O'Neil, Jennie Cushman; Angelina Simper, Arata Miller; Mary Ames, Wildergerd Espy.

The following was the program for the evening: Recitation, Bro. Boodle; reading, Miss Anderson; piano, Miss Guard; song, Miss Blodgett; address, Bro. Hutcherson; hymn, "Throw out the Life Line." The Andover Athletic Association held its second annual dance in the Town hall last Friday evening and was one of the most enjoyable events in the history of the organization. The attendance was exceptionally large, many coming from out of town. As is usually the case there were many more women present than men.

The Andover band orchestra of seven pieces furnished music, and dancing was enjoyed until nearly one o'clock. The officials were as follows:

Floor director—J. Sweeney.
Assistant director—J. Soutar.
Aids—J. Lawson, L. Hannon, W. Matthew, J. Murch, C. Moynihan, L. Hilton, W. Crowley, J. McCafferty, C. Foster, W. Thompson, D. Moynihan, D. L. Counts, I. Murch, D. Lawson, R. Hodnett, W. Hardy, G. Sellars, C. Mills, E. Murphy, J. Manning, W. Valentine, W. Gordon, T. Morrissey.

The following committee had charge of the event: Lawrence Hannon, John Sweeney, John Lawson, Lester Hilton, Ivan Murch, William Matthews and Cornelius J. Moynihan.

Social at Free Church.

The first paid supper and social of the season at the Free church was held in the vestry last evening. There was an extremely large attendance and all enjoyed the fine things prepared by the members of the Ladies' Benevolent society, and later in the evening the entertainment prepared by the young ladies and young men.

The supper was served between the hours of 6:30 and 7:30 and the menu consisted of beans, brown bread, cold meats, pie, cake, tea or coffee and fruits. After supper an entertainment was given consisting of the following numbers: "The Hayseed Orchestra," Prof. Wilson, conductor; bag pipe selections, James Ramsey; contest, guessing names of prominent people from pictures. COMMUNICATION.

Boston, Nov. 4th, 1905.

To the Editor of the Townsman:

I am Mr. Wood's chauffeur and was driving his machine on the night of the accident at a speed of twelve miles an hour. The speed limit allowed by law on that road is twenty miles an hour. The accident occurred about five minutes past seven. The night was dark. On the way from Reading several electric cars passed us with their blinding search-lights. One of these cars passed us just before the accident. We had hardly emerged from its blinding light, when we were thrown upon the light of an electric light pole, coming out of what appeared utter darkness. By my knowledge of the road I knew I was on the extreme right on the brink of a wide ditch or valley made by the road being so much higher. Almost suddenly, without any warning, an approaching horse and wagon loomed up before me. To have turned to the right would have been perilous to the occupants of the machine. Instinctively, with the impulse of self-preservation, I turned abruptly to the left, simultaneously with the driver of the wagon, who does not deny seeing my approaching light and who evidently leisurely turned at that fatal moment, or the horse did it without the aid of the driver. Naturally my machine stopped on the car tracks on the extreme left hand side of the road. If the driver of this wagon, with due regard for the safety of others whether they be in automobile or private carriage, had given full half road measure, the accident would not have occurred. Owners of automobiles have an equal right to the road with any vehicle, and why have not the occupants of the automobile in this particular instance, whose lives were unnecessarily imperiled, the same right to exclaim as did the author of the recent communication in your paper when he says, "How long are we to be terrorized and our lives endangered by such culpable recklessness and disregard of law as attends the driving of auto's over our highways?"

The motorman on the electric car going toward Reading, through his ability with his search-light, probably knows whether that particular wagon was on the wrong side of the road when he passed it or whether it was hugging closely the right hand side of the road going to Reading, close to the car track, where it should have been.

The person who wrote the anonymous article referred to above in your last issue, not being present, is entirely incompetent to pass upon the matter.

(Signed),

WALTER F. SCHULTZ.

BRIDGET McCUSKER.

Bridget McCusker, wife of Frank McCusker, died at the family home, 9 Baker's lane, Saturday morning, aged 57 years. She was born in Ireland but has been a resident of Abbott Village for many years. The funeral was held Monday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Augustine's church, and burial took place in the St. Augustine's cemetery. Mrs. McCusker is survived by a husband and two daughters.

MRS. NORA TROY WALL.

Mrs. Nora Troy Wall, wife of John Wall of North Main street, passed away after an illness of several days on Tuesday. She was born in Ireland 28 years ago but has been a resident of this country for many years although she has not lived in Andover long.

The funeral was held on Thursday morning at ten o'clock from St. Augustine's church, Rev. Fr. McGowan performing the service. Interment was in St. Augustine's cemetery.

JAMES GRIEVES.

The death of James Grievies, an old and respected resident of Frye Village occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Mander, on Tuesday after a brief illness. Mr. Grievies who was 55 years of age, was compelled to give up work quite a few years ago as failing health together with his advanced age would not permit him to perform the arduous duties to which he had been accustomed.

Mr. Grievies was born in Scotland and when a young man came to this country and settled in Andover.

The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock from the home of his daughter, 41 Lowell street, the service being performed by Rev. F.A. Wilson. Interment was in the South cemetery. The bearers were: James May, David M. May, George May and Gordon May.

Barn Set by Incendiary.

A fire was discovered in a barn owned by Freeman Abbott in the West District about half past seven on Wednesday night and an alarm was rung in from box 28 in Ballardvale summoning the department of that place to the scene. The fire had gained considerable progress before the firemen arrived and it was seen at once that the building was doomed. The men worked hard, however, and saved adjoining buildings from being damaged.

Although Mr. Abbott does not live at this place, he has used the barn for storing hay, fodder, etc. There were about seven tons of fine hay and three tons of corn valued at $200, entirely consumed in the blaze.

Mr. Abbott, who was soon on the scene, said that the fire had, without a doubt, been set and he immediately notified the local police. Officers Mearns and Shattuck were immediately put upon the case and at a late hour John McLaughlin was arrested, charged with the offense. He was employed by George Pillsbury, on the latter's farm, and when the place was visited by the officers he could not be found. A search was made for him, however, and he was soon captured.

When interviewed Thursday morning, McLaughlin said that he was entirely innocent of the charge and that it was the outcome of a grudge that brought him into trouble. He said that he had had considerable trouble with Abbott and that on Sunday while intoxicated, he had been severely beaten by him and his brothers.

McLaughlin was brought before Judge Stone on Thursday evening but the charge of setting the fire was dismissed as there was not sufficient evidence to convict him. He was, however, charged with being a habitual drunkard and he pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to serve one year in the house of correction at Bridgewater.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

The Secretary of the State board of Education has issued the following circular relative to recent changes in school legislation:

To School Committees and Superintendents:—

Your attention is hereby called to the following important school legislation:

By chapter 320, Acts of 1905, the age for compulsory school attendance has been raised from fourteen to sixteen for children "who cannot read at sight and write legibly simple sentences in the English language."

By chapter 207, Acts of 1905, no employment certificate may be issued to a child under sixteen who is not able to read at sight and to write legibly simple sentences in the English language.

It becomes the duty of school committees, superintendents and truant officers to see that the provisions of these acts are thoroughly enforced. The phrases "to read at sight" and "to write legibly simple sentences" should be interpreted liberally in the interests of the education of the child and not narrowly in the interests of his labor.

It is the intent of the new legislation that before leaving school every child should have acquired such facility in the use of reading and writing as to enable him to continue and finish his education afterward, and to prepare him to be an intelligent worker. If the law is executed rigorously in its spirit, it will prove to be a noteworthy addition to the school legislation of the State.

Very respectfully yours,
GEORGE H. MARTIN,
Secretary.

On Monday afternoon representatives of the Johnson High school, North Andover, the Methuen High school and the Pynchard school met at the Methuen High school to consider the advisability of forming a triangular league between the three schools for the promotion of athletics. It was decided that a league of this sort would be a good thing and steps were taken to form a permanent organization. A meeting of representatives of the three schools will be held at the Johnson High school on Nov. 29, when a constitution will be adopted.

The final election of the speakers for the Goldsmith Prize Speaking contest has taken place and the following members of the school were chosen: Miss Grace Coyne and Ernest Wood from the Senior class, Miss Cynthia Flint and Frank Smith from the Junior class, Miss Jane Coyne and Ray Dearborn from the Sophomore class and Miss Maud Bennett and Laurence Batchelder from the Freshman. The contest will occur on Dec. 8.

The "Mouse Trap," the play to be given by the Senior class on Dec. 10, will prove to be a very interesting entertainment. After the play there will be a dance. Tickets will be on sale soon by members of the school at 35 cents each, which will admit to both entertainment and dance.

Missing Boy in Macon.

John Holly, the fourteen year old colored lad who disappeared from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hinton on Monday, October 23, has been heard from having arrived at the home of his parents in Macon, Ga., on last Thursday. A telegram was received by Miss Alice Hinton on Friday from the boy's father, saying that the boy made his appearance while he was away and on his return he and Mrs. Holly questioned him regarding the money which he was known to have had before leaving Andover and with which he paid his way to Macon. Young Holly said that the money was given him by a Mrs. Bixby in Revere by Miss Hinton. It was found on inquiry by Miss Hinton it was found that Mrs. Bixby had not seen the boy of late and that she had never given him any money.

That the boy had not only stolen the money from the drawer at Mr. Hinton's, but that he lied to his parents, is very evident from his story but further inquiry will be made by all parties concerned.

It will be impossible for Mr. Hinton to figure up the exact amount that the boy stole as his thievements have gone on for a long time undetected. Mr. Holly however, has agreed to pay Mr. Hinton in full if he can figure up his loss.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Holly are respectable residents of Macon and the acts of their son are felt keenly by them.

Fun in Summer and Diversion in Winter.

To the Editor:—Such was the heading of one of your crisp editorials two weeks ago.

The world is full of fun and diversion. The boy of tender years begins playing marbles before the snow is melted. In a few years he is mad over baseball and football. When he gets older he gets fun in whist, dice, checkers, or billiards, and perhaps it is well that it is so. Yet, if he is spared till "three score and ten", and not able to go out and join with his friends in these amusements, where is his diversion to come from? If he is rich his friends who are waiting for his death to get their share of his belongings, will call for him often. If he is a poor man few callers bother him, and unless he has friends he can lay his hands on at any time, his fun and diversion is over.

This letter is for the boys at the mills here, and instead of having a weary time on Sunday afternoons, rich stores of joy for present and future use can be found almost without money and without price.

It is the duty of all employed in mills and factories to take advantage of Saturday afternoon and be out in the open free air, which costs nothing. There is a false notion among those who do not know factory life that the hours of labour are so curtailed that much of the twenty-four hours are lost. Let us look at the facts. It is not less than thirteen hours with what we call a ten-hour day, from six o'clock in the morning till seven in the evening; there is no time for any fun. There are, however, two precious hours, from 7 till 9 p.m., which, taken advantage of, will give the young folks employed in the mills friends and companions that never quarrel with them and never grow stale. I venture to say that any boy who really wishes to be a scholar can by using these two hours for that end, get to be what he wants to be. Just read the account of the early training of one of the candidates for governor this year.

But I have digressed. I spoke of companions that never worry if you neglect them, and give pleasure every time you use them. I mean "good books" when I speak of companions. If you want diversion at your own fire-side during these cold evenings, read "Dickens". Get to know the stories of Shakespeare's plays, about the big fat man called "Falstaff", who at the hotel spent one cent on bread and twenty dollars on wine and brandy. There are such men today. The world has not changed. "Can the leopard change his spots?"—Hamlet. You should know fair Ophelia, who, in her madness, liked flowers. You well understand the beauty and sweetness of Ellen Terry's bunch of pansies. "This for remembrance" is sent to adorn Irving's coffin. If you get tired of Shakespeare try an older book, the "Bible," and far easier understood. You will be a better workman by knowing thoroughly this old book, and if you are to be a scholar or a merchant it will help you. Walter Scott, on his death-bed, said, "There is only one Book." There are thousands of books. Read Darwin, Huxley, and the rest of that ilk. Then see what Tom Carlyle, the old rugged Scotchman, called Darwinism. He said it was "The Religion of Dirt."

Mr. Bryce, an Irishman, writes a grand book on America. Oliver Goldsmith, another Irishman, has poetry and story, sweet and clean, and worth reading. It is one hundred years since the sea fight of Trafalgar was fought. An American sailor writes about it. Get to know where Trafalgar Bay is, what the battle was about, and how that battle, and Waterloo, ten years later, changed the politics of Europe. Get to know about the beginning of this big rich country we live in.

I am not writing the impossible. All I have hinted at is within your reach. Don't suppose because you are honestly winning your bread in a factory that you are not in the republic of letters, which knows no aristocracy or smart set. The boy at Harvard may have better facilities for learning, if he has the gumption to improve his opportunities. You also have your opportunities. Show yourselves to be men capable of enjoying life. Enjoy your home club, and not be dependent altogether on other people for clubs.

IAN McDUGALL.

Wedding.

BAILEY—CHANDLER.

Miss Bertha A. Chandler, daughter of the late Joshua Chandler and Mrs. Eldes Chandler of the West Parish, was united in marriage to Frank Ellsworth Bailey, Wednesday morning at ten o'clock. The ceremony took place at the family home and was performed by the Rev. J. Edgar Park of the West Parish church in the presence of the members of the family. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey left town immediately on their wedding trip and on their return will reside at their home in West Parish.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL

ANDOVER 7; LAWRENCE 0.

At Andover last Saturday these teams met for the second time this season in a league contest. The first game was played at Lawrence and was easily won by Andover with the record score of 12-0. Since then, however, the Lawrence team has improved considerably, beating the Merrimacks and Methuens, and playing close games with Fore River, Boston Rovers and Lynn.

It was expected that the game would be close, although Andover was conceded to win.

The Andover team was again rearranged, Stirling playing in the half back line and Dakers was at centre in place of Bob Lowe. The team played a fine combined game and were in great form.

Capt Anderson won the toss and Ritchie kicked off for Lawrence, the ball going to Rennie, who made no mistake in clearing finely. By fine combination Andover dribbled the ball down the field. E. Anderson passed to Ross who in turn centred beautifully to Dakers who had the goal at his mercy and scored with a brilliant shot which completely beat Williams. From the kick-off the home forwards got the ball and by fine passing carried it down the field and Ross sent in a stinger which Williams held in fine style. R. Anderson got the ball at his toe and passed to Welch who sent it over to Dakers who was laying in position to score the second goal for his team. Lawrence again kicked off but Andover forwards were on the ball and in a twinkling were down on Williams. Ross passed splendidly across the field to Poland, who made no mistake and beat Williams for the third time. Andover was back again at the Lawrence goal and got a corner which was fruitless. The Lawrence defense was sorely taxed, and Williams did most brilliant work in clearing shots from Ross and E. Anderson. Finally the backs relieved the pressure and Lawrence made for Andover's territory only to be driven back. Haddon headed to E. Anderson, who with Ross ran the ball down the wing. The latter again passed clear across the field to Poland, who scored the fourth goal with a hard shot. Andover had a good chance to score a few minutes later from a penalty kick, Ritchie handling the ball in front of his own goal. W. Black took the kick, but made the same mistake as in the Merrimack game by shooting the ball in the centre of the goal, Williams easily stopping it. The first half ended, Andover 4; Lawrence 0.

The second half was a repetition of the first, for from the kick-off the Andover forwards went down the field at a great pace. R. Anderson who had been playing a great game, passed the ball to Ross and that player made the best shot of the game, scoring the fifth goal after a minute of play. Haddon changed places with Dakers at centre forward and he signaled his presence in quick time by scoring with a terrific shot, the ball striking the cross-bar and going under. Williams had no possible chance to save. From the kick-off Lawrence had the only chance to score during the game, Andover being penalized in front of the goal. Ritchie took the kick, but O'Connell managed to save. Near the close Ross scored again and the game ended with Andover seven up.

For Lawrence, Williams in goal, Turton, Stevenson and Casey played a fine game. It would be hard to play out any of the Andover players, the whole team showing a splendid combination.

The teams were:
Andover—Goal, O'Connell; backs, Rennie, W. Black; halves, Stirling, Haddon, R. Anderson; forwards, Ross, E. Anderson, Dakers, Welch, Poland.

Lawrence—Goal, Williams; backs, Turton, Stevenson; halves, Timms, Casey, O'Dea; forwards, Ritchie, Berry, Ritchie, Young Dawson.

Referee, H. Gordon; linesmen, Andover, W. McKenzie; Lawrence, J. Wright.

THE STANDING.

The games of Saturday further increased the lead of the first four teams and practically settled the clubs which will finish in the first division. Fore River continued its unbroken string of victories with an easy win of 5-0 at the expense of Merrimack. Andover gave Lawrence a bad beating, scoring seven goals and shutting out the city team. Lynn's win from Methuen kept that club in third place, and Boston Rovers defeat of Quincy 1-0 enabled the former to keep its place in the race for second position. Quincy, Lawrence, Merrimack and Methuen are hopelessly in the rear.

A large will leave the square taking all who wish to go free of charge. On Friday evening the fair will be continued and the entertainment will consist of music. The prizes will also be awarded at this time.

New York Bars Shaw Play.
"Mrs. Warren's Profession," the drama by Bernard Shaw which Arnold Daly put on the boards at the Garrick theater, New York, in the teeth of much popular opposition and a definite warning from Anthony Comstock of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, was withdrawn after one performance owing to the almost universal adverse criticism of the press, and at the same time Police Commissioner McAdoo, who witnessed the production, sent word that he would prevent further performances of the play. The manager and the male actors were arrested as a matter of form. Mr. Daly had announced beforehand that he would be guided by the opinion of a majority of the press. The same production had already been prohibited at New Haven, Conn. Owing to the notoriety thus given to the piece a great throng of curious people crowded for admission to the performance, and seats in any part of the house were sold for as high as $25 each.

While admitting that "Mrs. Warren's Profession" is the best thing Shaw has written, considering dramatic construction, nearly all of the newspaper critics disapprove because the author has depicted the most offensive phases of the social evil without a saving grace of human feeling. They admit that the same theme of woman's abasement has been handled by other artists, but always the harlot has been made attractive in some way or has been given some redeeming feature.

Speaking in his own defense to an interviewer in London, Mr. Shaw emphasized this point by saying "that in the opinion of the police prostitution is a permissible subject on the stage only when it is made agreeable." He believes that this play will make him friends in America who will steadily press two questions: "Are the facts exposed in 'Mrs. Warren's Profession' denied? If not, in whose interests are they suppressed?" He thinks it will be seen that the suppression by the police is in the interests of the most dangerous class—namely, the employees who pay women less than subsistence wages and overwork them mercilessly to grind profits for themselves out of the pith of the nation.

Marlowe and Sothern's Latest.
—E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe brought out their version of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" at the Knickerbocker theater, New York, Oct. 30. Mr. Sothern's aim was to make Shylock out of the sordid Jew of low and unkempt type, following the traditions of Booth and Keane rather than those of Irving. Miss Marlowe takes the part of Portia.

Famous Violinist Tours America.
Marie Hall, the English violinist who rose to distinction from her position as a wandering street musician, has arrived to begin a concert tour of this country under the management of Henry Wolfson, her first appearance being at Carnegie hall, New York, Nov. 8, assisted by Walter Damrosch and the New York Symphony orchestra. Her tour will embrace fifty concerts in different cities of the United States and Canada. She first appeared in public three years ago at Vienna and later in London, making a profound impression. She studied under Kruse, Wilhelmj and Sevcik.

COMMERCIAL

Railroad Rebates Unavoidable.
J. S. Leeds, general manager of the Santa Fe Refrigerator Dispatch, made the admission before the Interstate commerce commission at Washington that rebates are given to shippers in the California fruit service by practically all of the private car lines. He declares that this system is the only way to avoid a disastrous rate war. The rebates, he said, amounted to $10 a car to California, $15 to Buffalo or Pittsburg and $20 to the Atlantic coast. Mr. Leeds' company operates 4,450 cars which, however, are owned by the Santa Fe railway and leased for 5 per cent of their cost. The annual earning of each car is $142 and the cost of maintenance $75.

Leak in Treasury Charged.
President T. C. Stevens of the Commercial National bank of Washington has discovered what he thinks is a serious leak in the treasury department in connection with the circular issued by Secretary Shaw in September to the holders of 3 per cent registered bonds offering to exchange the bonds for registered 2 per cents. Although it is not customary for the department to disclose the names of bond holders, Mr. Stevens found that on the very next day after this notice was issued circulars were received by his depositors from the National City bank of New York offering to deal in the 3 per cent bonds. His inquiry at the department disclosed the fact that circulars of the City bank had been addressed and mailed in stamped envelopes by treasury employees at the expense of the City bank.

A $14,000,000 Steel Deal.
The immense iron and steel plants of the La Belle Iron works at Wheeling, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., have been purchased by the American Sheet and Tin Plate company for approximately $14,000,000. This deal leaves but two large independent iron mills in the Wheeling district.

Steel Trust's New High Mark.
The quarterly statement of the United States Steel corporation showed that the company had more unfilled orders on its books than at any previous time. They amounted to 5,705,377 tons. The regular dividend on the preferred was declared.

Fight Inside of Mutual.
The decision of the Mutual Life Insurance company to appoint a committee of the trustees to investigate all of the company's affairs is now understood to mean the formation of a group of policy holders and trustees whose purpose is to get rid of the McCurdy management.

INDUSTRIAL

Jersey Central's Big Yard.
The Central Railroad of New Jersey announces its intention of building a new freight yard occupying nearly a square mile of land to be filled in from the present shore line south of the freight docks at Jersey City. The work is expected to take a year and a half and will cost $1,500,000.

Central to Spend $14,000,000.
Three Chicago corporations have received orders from the New York Central for equipment and steel rails to cost $14,000,000. These are the Illinois Steel company, which has a contract for 60,000 tons of steel rails; the Pullman company, which will build at least 10,000 freight cars, and the Westinghouse Steel Car and Foundry company, which will build 2,000 cars.

A Faster B. and O. Service.
A new time table issued by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad reduces by one hour and thirty minutes the time of the Chicago limited to Baltimore, making the trip in twenty-four hours and thirty minutes.

Rubbish Gives New York Light.
The city of New York has just started its plan for furnishing light to the new Williamsburg bridge. The fuel for the light plant is furnished by the street cleaning commissioner, who is thus relieved of the expense of otherwise disposing of a great quantity of rubbish. The furnaces are kept going entirely on the material collected by the street cleaners. The plant cost $55,000. Several schools will probably be lighted from the same source.

A Boston-Australia Line.
A direct line of steamers from Boston to Australia is to be established by the Elder Dempster company of Liverpool, the object being to give better facilities for the direct purchase of wool by American buyers in Australia and to furnish an opportunity for the extension of American trade.

LEGAL-CRIMINAL

Suit Case Mystery Solved.
The police of Boston received a tangible clue toward the solution of the suit case murder mystery when Mrs. Catherine Geary of Cambridge identified the rings worn on hands which were found with legs in a second suit case floating in the harbor as those owned by her daughter, Susan Geary, who was in the chorus of "The Shepherd King" Opera company. This girl had disappeared Sept. 3, eleven days before the torso of a young woman in a suit case was found in Boston harbor. Later it came out that Morris Nathan, employed in the same company, had been engaged to the girl and that he knew of her intention to consult a malpractitioner in the city of Boston known as Dr. Robert J. Henderson and a Dr. Bishop, employed by him. It is known that the girl died in this office as the result of an operation, after which her body was dismembered and carried by the doctors in suit cases to a cab and thence to a point where they could be thrown in the bay without observation.

Later two arrests were made at New York which further cleared up the case. The prisoners are William Howard and W. L. Crawford, the latter being the son-in-law of Dr. Jane Bishop, in whose house the operation was performed. Howard made a confession telling how he was employed by Crawford to assist in disposing of the girl's remains.

Strong Band Blows Up Bank.
The vault of the First National bank at Hagerstown, Ind., was blown open by twelve burglars, who with drawn revolvers kept all officers at a distance until several hundred dollars in cash had been carried off. The robbers were part of the notorious "nitro gang" which has raided bank after bank in the Ohio valley. They were routed in a bloody battle at Willard, Ky., a few days later by a posse of citizens. Four were landed in jail, one being mortally wounded, and two others were being trailed by bloodhounds. Their last raid was on the bank at Willard.

College Initiate Killed by Train.
Investigation of the death of Stuart L. Pierson, who was run over by a train at Kenyon college, convinced the local officials that the boy had been tied to the track by students as part of his initiation into a college fraternity, they having miscalculated the time of the trains.

Murderer of Thompson Dead.
The New York police are satisfied that Richard Hannibal, who was a negro bell boy in the Hotel St. James and who died in the hospital as the result of some sort of a quarrel with a negro, was the man who murdered Jacob H. Thompson, exchange editor of the New York Times, in his room at that hotel on Sept. 7.

Cashier's Suicide Premature.
Nathan Eckstein of Seattle, Wash., paid to the Citizens' bank of Buffalo money enough to wipe out all the indebtedness of a local seed company on account of which Harry J. Block, cashier of the bank and son of its president, had committed suicide a few hours before at Utica, N. Y. The young cashier had felt personally responsible for loans to the seed company and had doubted the ability of Eckstein to make good. The cashier's accounts were correct to a penny.

Packers Accuse Garfield.
In two special pleas filed by the beef packers at Chicago a dismissal of the charges made by the government requested on the ground that the oral and documentary evidence which they were compelled to give to Commissioner of Corporations Garfield were turned over by him to the department of justice and made the basis of criminal prosecution in spite of his promise that the evidence would be confined to his department.

RELIGIOUS

Professor Mitchell Guilty.
The board of bishops of the Methodist church, in session at Washington, sustained by a narrow majority the charges of heresy preferred against H. G. Mitchell, professor of Hebrew in the Boston university.

Discussing Unitarian Exclusion.
Nearly all of the church papers are discussing the decision of the committee of the coming interchurch conference of federation to refuse admission to the distinguished delegates of the Unitarian church—namely, Dr. Edward E. Hale, ex-Secretary John D. Long and Dr. Samuel A. Eliott, president of the Unitarian association. The evangelicals say that the exclusion of Unitarians is just as reasonable as it would be to put anarchists out of a good government conference. The Outlook explains that the denominational bodies which agreed to come together "regarded the invitation as acceptable only because it had been confined to evangelical denominations" and that the committee had to base its decision as to the admission of delegates upon the relation of the church bodies concerned rather than on an estimate of individual character. The Christian Advocate defends the exclusion by saying that the greater part of the work of the conference will depend upon "the evangelical interpretation of the presence and mission of Christ" and adds that the Unitarian conception of Christ "is as far from ours as the best strictly human being that ever lived is from God." The Church Standard says that if there is anything on which the Unitarians are agreed it is an expressed denial of the divinity of Christ. The Congregationalist says the truth is that the majority of the people of the time have not joined in the march of modern theological progress. The secular press almost unanimously condemns the act of exclusion.

Bad to Praise Tainted Gifts.
In a sermon at St. Paul temple, Chicago, Dr. Emil G. Hirsch took the position that while it was the duty of a multimillionaire to endow churches, hospitals, and schools, it was immoral to praise him for his gift. He argued that the gift was an act of restitution.

MISCELLANEOUS
Cotton Workers Accept Offer.
Four out of five of the unions in the textile trade at Fall River, Mass., have voted in favor of accepting the compromise offer made by the Manufacturers' association. This is for a 5 per cent increase in wages, with a sliding scale of profit sharing contingent on the relation of the price of wool to the price of print cloth.

8,066,672 People in New York State.
The official figures of the New York state census disclosed a population of 8,066,672, of which 4,014,304 is represented in the population of Greater New York. The state's population in 1900 was 7,268,894, and that of the metropolis was 3,437,202.

Morton Statue Unveiled.
The statue of J. Sterling Morton, best known as the founder of Arbor day while he was secretary of agriculture in the Cleveland cabinet, was unveiled at Nebraska City, ex-President Cleveland delivering the principal address.

First Snow for the West.
The last day of October was marked by the falling of the first mantle of snow over the states between the Mississippi and the Rockies except in the southern tier.

Accidents.
The California express on the Santa Fe was derailed in a walled cut near Kansas City, Mo., causing the death of twelve persons and the injury of twenty-five.

Six officials were killed by an explosion in the Hazel Kirk mine near Monongahela, Pa., while they were investigating a slow fire.

The blowing out of the head of a large boiler in the central power station of the United States Electric Light company at Washington killed two men instantly and badly injured three. One of the principal street car lines was put out of business for several hours, and a part of the city was without light.

The Swedish steamer Johanna and the Russian bark Antares collided and foundered in the North sea recently, and twenty-six of the crews were drowned.

Hustling for the Speakership

An interesting campaign has been practically imposed on the whole commonwealth through the retirement of Speaker Frothingham. The retirement of a man who had the speakership of the lower branch in the legislature assured to him, to take up the majority nomination of the Republican party of the city of Boston, is entirely unprecedented. It speaks highly not only of the courage but of the moral sense of the youthful Republican leader. But at the same time it has caused a contest, a strong one, for the office of speaker is held by many as next to that of governor, in many respects it is more desirable. No office exceeds it in eminent respectability and no man but an honest, fearless and able legislator can or ought to try to fill it.

The state loses in the retirement of Speaker Frothingham, but there is cause for rejoicing in the fact that the old Bay State has a number of worthy men to select from in finding a successor. Not one of the men mentioned thus far for the place would reflect anything but credit on the state—and this is something that cannot be said of every contest or of every set of candidates. They are all honest and able. They are all men of convictions and with the courage of their convictions. The views of most of them on the larger questions are known. The only way, therefore to discuss them is alphabetically.

Rep. James A. Lowell of Newton has been mentioned as a candidate for the speakership, but he has already announced that he will not contest nor permit the use of his name for the office.

The candidates already announced are Representatives John N. Cole of Andover, Robert Luce of Somerville, W. Rodman Peabody of Cambridge, Joseph Walker of Brookline and Charles E. Ward of Buckland.

In the alphabetical order Representative John N. Cole of Andover comes first. He is a citizen of Andover. He is a newspaper publisher, with papers in Andover and Lawrence which exert a wide influence. He has served three years in the lower branch. His return for a fourth term is now assured, although the district is a so-called rotating one and precedent is broken on his return. This at the outset indicates something of the hold he has on his own district, which is one of the most important in the commonwealth.

His service on Beacon hill has been distinguished. He has been on many important committees. Among these might be noted the committee which a year ago considered the relations between capital and labor. A well-timed and mind, and the friendly relations he himself enjoyed with representatives of the two great parties, employers and employees, made him a decidedly valuable member on this committee. During the recent session he headed the committee on public lighting, which had to do with the Boston gas situation. To Mr. Cole's efforts as is freely admitted, belongs much of the credit of the eleven-hour solution of what promised to be a knotty problem, a solution which pleased the representatives of the consumers, and was accepted by the gas interests. His conduct of the hearing on this gas matter was masterly and his entire fairness won high praise for him.

Mr. Cole is a rugged character, rugged physically and mentally. He is, therefore, naturally a positive man. He has convictions, deep ones, on the great questions which most affect the people. The interests of corporations must go hand in hand with the interests of the people, he believes. This has been his policy and his platform. His influence in the lower branch has been marked.

While not narrowly partisan, he is nevertheless a strong party man, and works for Republican organization. Mr. Cole is an aggressive, incisive debater on the floor. On several occasions

HOSPITALS CROWDED

MAJORITY OF PATIENTS, WOMEN

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Saves Many From this Sad and Costly Experience.

It is a sad but true fact that every year brings an increase in the number of operations performed upon women in our hospitals. More than three-fourths of the patients lying on those snow white beds are women and girls who are awaiting or recovering from operations made necessary by neglect.

Every one of these patients has plenty of warning in that bearing down feeling, pain at the left or right of the womb, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, leucorrhoea, dizziness, flatulency, displacements of the womb or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the ovaries or womb, and if not heeded the trouble will make headway until the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation, and a lifetime of impaired usefulness at best, while in many cases the results are fatal.

The following letter should bring hope to suffering women: Miss Luella Adams, of the Colonnade Hotel, Seattle, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—About two years ago I was a great sufferer from a severe female trouble, pains and headaches. The doctor prescribed for me and finally told me that I had a tumor on the womb and must undergo an operation if I wanted to get well. I felt that this was my death warrant, but I spent hundreds of dollars for medical help, but the tumor kept growing. Fortunately I corresponded with an aunt in the New England States, and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it was said to cure tumors. I did so and immediately began to improve in health, and I was entirely cured, the tumor disappearing entirely, without an operation. I wish every suffering woman would try this great preparation."

Just as surely as Miss Adams was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman in the land who suffers from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous excitability and nervous prostration.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all young women who are ill to write her for free advice. Address, Lynn, Mass.

flous he has been called to the chair in the absence of the speaker and has acquitted himself well.

Rep. Robert Luce of Somerville, whom few members of the legislature are better known throughout the state, is once more an aspirant for the speakership. He was a candidate in the memorable contest a few years ago when Speaker Frothingham won out as successor to Hon. James J. Myer of Cambridge. That he will make an aggressive campaign cannot be doubted. Already his friends have bestowed themselves and the candidate himself is in action. If Mr. Cole is of a positive mind, Mr. Luce is of a more positive one. He lacks the conservatism of the other candidates in this contest. That he will make the situation embarrassing for some of his rivals for the high honor, at least temporarily, may be admitted.

Mr. Luce is perhaps best known on account of the various election measures which bear his name, as, for example, the Luce primary election law. He has ideals in public life and public service, and, as is common with such legislators, is prone at times to lose sight of the practical side of life. Such organizations as the Public Franchise league and other associations of professional good-government leaders, would undoubtedly select Mr. Luce's man in such a contest. Mr. Luce's views on the various issues that touch the corporate interests of Massachusetts have been pronounced almost radical at times. Naturally he could expect no assistance from these interests in this controversy.

Personally Mr. Luce is a most agreeable gentleman, even if a bit austere in manner. Of his honesty and sincerity there has never been the slightest question. If elected speaker he would undoubtedly be fair and impartial.

As was expected, Rep. W. Rodman Peabody of Cambridge is a candidate for the speakership, and within an hour after Rep. Frothingham's announcement his friends were in the field. Mr. Peabody is an excellent type of the young, earnest attorney. He is keen, clever and warm-hearted. Although he has served in the lower branch for two years, he has made an excellent impression on his colleagues.

He is not of the rugged order. He is a member of the important special committee that is considering railroad and street railway laws. His friends are sanguine that they can make a good showing with this candidate, but his strength is at present somewhat problematical. While he has not been included in the category of house leaders, the leaders have held his abilities in respect.

Following out the alphabetical order, Rep. Joseph Walker of Brookline comes next. He placed himself tentatively in a speakership contest at the recent session of the legislature, and at several social gatherings of friendly colleagues he was hailed as the next speaker. While his friends would have been better had things run in their natural course, and if Mr. Frothingham had remained at the helm for another year, it is still undoubtedly true that the Brookline man is a serious factor in the coming contest.

It will be the more interesting because the very following that would take up Peabody would view with friendly eyes the Walker movement. While a conscientious member in the last session, Mr. Walker did not acquire the reputation of a hard worker. He devoted himself assiduously to the work of the ways and means committee, but beyond that his colleagues heard comparatively little from him. He lacks something of the fire which made famous his distinguished father, ex-Gov. Walker, the gray eagle of Quinsigamont. But on the whole, he is a good type of the Massachusetts legislator, thoughtful, honest and serious in the great work of legislation.

Even though Rep. Charles H. Ward of Buckland is having the fight of his life for a return to the lower branch, his friends still insist that he is a candidate for the speakership and he must be so considered. Whether Mr. Ward is really speakership timber or not, this much can be said—that few legislators have developed more during their period of service on Beacon hill than has he. The Franklin county miller and farmer, for such he is, combines within himself many of the qualities that make up the ideal presiding officer. That he lacks others, such as finesse, cannot be doubted. His candor would undoubtedly attract the whom the locality argument is ever potent. It is many years since a farmer sat in the speakership chair—but then it is many years since a rail splitter was president of the United States. Mr. Ward has become a leader in the lower branch, and he won his spurs by his own efforts and endeavors. No man is more closely in touch with the financial affairs of the big commonwealth than this representative who began so humbly. His candidacy is therefore worth watching.

THE DIET OF WHALES.

A whale's appetite is phenomenal says "Nature." His chief diet consists of Jellyfish. He has simply to open his mouth and paddle along leisurely in order to take in Jellyfish by the wagonload. Such is the method adopted by the whalebone whale. The sperm whale, on the contrary, captures huge squids weighing often several tons. Like his brother, the whalebone whale, he must be constantly on the lookout for food; otherwise he would starve. As many as fourteen seals have been taken from a thirty-foot "killer." Other fishes of enormous appetites are not uncommon. The bluefish, for example, thrives on sardines and other small fish. Assuming that one bluefish eats an small fish a day, it has been figured that it requires 10,000,000 sardines to feed the 1,000,000,000 bluefish on our coasts every summer. Most curious of all eaters is the hydra—a strange creature which can be turned inside out without impairing its appetite or its power to eat.

LAWRENCE

PRETTY LAWRENCE GIRL SENTENCED FOR LARCENY.

Alice M. Dolbier of this city was arraigned in the Lowell police court yesterday on a charge of stealing a $35 diamond ring from a Lowell jeweler. She was sent to Sherborn.

Miss Dolbier went to Lowell from Lawrence several months ago. She secured work at different times in restaurants as a waitress. The Y. W. C. A. saw her at its rooms in John street occasionally and everything was done for her at the association home that would tend to have her retain an air of respectability. The girl dressed well and was exceedingly attractive in appearance.

She has light hair and dark brown eyes and her general set up is that of a woman 25 years of age. She seemed fully aware of her good looks and all the efforts of the matrons at the Y. W. C. A. to have her stay off the streets seemed of no avail.

Thursdays morning she entered the jewelry store of Frost & Lyle and there engaged Louis Mercier, a clerk, in conversation. Mercier at the time was sorting out the rings and watches, which were in envelopes, and which had been left for repairs. One envelope contained the diamond ring in question, and when Alice left the store Mr. Mercier discovered that the ring was missing. He at once communicated with the police.

Inspectors Maher and Lafamne kept a close watch on the pawn shops, but failed to find out anything. They were also armed with a description of the girl and it was not hard to locate her. She wore tan shoes, a fine black and white check tulle made suit, and black hat and a thin black veil. Added to this were dark brown eyes and the blonde hair.

When questioned at the police station, the young woman tearfully admitted having taken the envelope containing the ring. After leaving the store she said she went over to John street and there met a female fortune teller who offered to tell her fortune and who immediately told her that she had taken the ring. The fortune teller told her that she would take the ring from her and pay her seven dollars for it, and she gave it to her and received the seven dollars.

She informed the police that she could find the fortune teller again but when taken out by Inspector Maher she was unable to do so.

MARRIAGE IS NOT A FAILURE.

With thoughts of matrimony unspoken, Miss Nellie Wiggins, a girl of eighteen summers, parted from her mother, Mrs. Chester, N. H., and came to Lawrence to visit among friends, so the story goes while the mother who is a milliner in Tamworth, N. H., where Nellie was born, went to Boston to buy goods.

Before launching upon their respective journeys, the mother arranged to meet her daughter in Rochester, and the two were to return home together, it is said. All this was in secret from the father whom it is alleged is opposed to the attentions paid the daughter by Henry A. Merriam, a young man employed as a machinist, residing with his mother and sister at 35 Gilbert street, Phillips Hill.

The two young people had known each other a year or more and it was with his folks that the daughter was to visit.

On returning to Rochester the mother failed to meet her daughter and came at once to this city where, as she expected, she found her. When asked where to return home with her, the daughter it is alleged replied, "Not on your life, I'm married." After this declaration nothing remained for the mother to do but to give her blessing. The new made wife it is said agreed to go home on the condition that her husband be allowed to return with her.

The two were married Oct. 10th by the Rev. George E. Lovejoy, pastor of the South Congregational church. The plans of the two young people had been laid for many months as is evident from the date on the certificate which was issued May 29.

The bridegroom is a son of a former letter carrier, now deceased, and his age given was 23 years.

THE IRISH LADIES' CHOIR IN BOSTON.

The "Irish Ladies' Choir of Dublin, Ireland," made its first Boston appearance at Symphony hall Sunday night before a large and representative gathering of Bostonians of Irish descent and of Yankee ancestry, and it was hard to say which portion of the audience was most enthusiastic. The Irish Ladies' Choir took the Massachusetts law of sacred concerts on Sunday night with a seriousness which would have astonished the professional Sunday night concert promoters, who don't hesitate to label a vaudeville show sacred. The program was entirely made up of sacred music, and the folk songs of Ireland, which all nations enjoy, were heard as encores.

The choir consists of twenty voices, well trained of good quality and power, which blend finely. The chorus numbers were sung with intelligence and spirit. The program was not confined to Irish music, Schubert, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Blumenthal, Altschuler and Verdi being among the composers called upon.

Miss Janie Jellie at the piano, Miss Madge Murphy, violin, and Miss Violet Kelly, harpist, were heard to good advantage in solo numbers. Miss Felida Boal, soprano; Miss Joan Holland, mezzo; Miss Alice Lindé, soprano; Miss Consett-Heller, soprano; and Miss A. Gillespie sang during the course of the evening, each being fully adequate to the demands made upon her.

The classic numbers were received with well bred approval, but it was the songs of Moore, the tunes familiar to everybody present which awoke the greatest enthusiasm, and it is without disparaging their more ambitious efforts that we say these songs were sung with a delicacy, a feeling and a pathos which surpassed all other numbers. The choir will sing with a complete change of program every evening this week and Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

BUSINESSLIKE.

The employer then dictated an epistle to Mr. Perkins concerning the price of corned stock.

True to her business training, when the stenographer transcribed her notes, she used this introduction to the letter: "Aris T. Perkins, Esq."

MATRIMONIAL.

INGRAM-ALBEE.

A wedding of much interest among local society people was solemnized at Oshkosh, Wis., Tuesday evening when Miss Constance Fenimore Albee, daughter of the late President J. S. Albee of the Oshkosh normal training school, and Ralph O. Ingram, son of Agent James Ingram of the Washington mills of the American Woolen company of this city, and secretary and assistant treasurer of the Shaw Machine company of Lowell, were united in marriage by the Rev. E. H. Smith in the First Congregational church at 7.30 o'clock. The church was most beautifully decorated in southern smilax, palms and chrysanthemums, and the ceremony was attended by friends and relatives of the contracting parties from both east and west.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Ernest Albee of Oshkosh as matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Erna Roentiz of Oshkosh, Miss Annie Mae Pinkham of Haverhill, Mass., Miss Grace M. Hinds of Brookline, Mass. The flower girls were the Misses Lillian Clark and Marion Skinner of Oshkosh.

The best man was Winfred A. Taylor of this city and the ushers were Henry Roentiz and Albert Albee of Oshkosh, Henry L. Wadsworth and J. Rodney Ball of this city.

The bride was crowned in ivory white radium silk, with rose point lace, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. The matron of honor wore a gown of real lace over cream chiffon and silk, and carried chrysanthemums of lavender and corn color.

The bridesmaids were attired in the colors of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity of which the groom and two of the ushers are members, and the Gamma Alpha Sigma sorority of Abbott academy, of Andover, of which the bride and several of her attendants are members. The Misses Pinkham and Roentiz wore lavender crystal chiffon and the bridesmaids wore of the same shade, while the Misses Hinds and Moore wore gowns of corn color crystal chiffon and carried chrysanthemums to match. The flower girls wore white chiffon with valenciennes lace.

The double ring ceremony was used. Miss Nina Wallen rendered the wedding march from Lohengrin, as the bridal party entered the church, and after the ceremony, Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was played. The soft strains of the Berceuse in A formed a fitting background during the nuptial service.

A reception at the home of the bride, 434 Algonquin street, followed the return of the bridal party and guests from the church and many friends were received. A mandolin orchestra furnished music during the reception, and dainty refreshments were served. The table was prettily decorated, and the table set in spots which were lighted by Mr. and Mrs. Ingram left Oshkosh late in the evening to enjoy a short bridal tour, after which they will make their home at 10 Parkway avenue, Lowell, Mass. They will be at home after Jan. 1.

WISE YOUNG MAN.

"Yes," said the old man to his young visitor, "I am proud of my girls, and would like to see them comfortably married, and as I have made a little money they will not go penniless to their husbands. There is Mary, 25 years old, and a really good girl. I shall give her $1000 when she marries. Then comes Betty who won't be 25 again, and I shall give her $3000, and the man who takes Eliza, who is 40, will have $5000 with her."

The young man reflected for a moment and then inquired: "You haven't one about 50, have you?"—Kansas City Journal.

TO BUILD ADDITION TO TRUANT SCHOOL.

It is the intention of the commissioners to give pupils of the Essex County Truant school in this city an industrial education, yet owing to the limited conveniences now this cannot be done. The third story of the present building is used as a dormitory and is overcrowded. The annex on the second floor is devoted to schoolrooms and the other sections of the structure to administration and domestic purposes.

The school was established by the county in 1891, after vigorous political opposition, and was formally opened August 1 of that year. The promoters were sanguine that a place was greatly needed for boys growing up without salutary control and often without any control, and experience has demonstrated that the contention was right.

Originally the main section of the schoolhouse was used for an industrial school, established by the city of Lawrence, and for 16 years subsequent was under the auspices of this city.

The county commissioners desiring a suitable location for a truant school decided that the Lawrence institution was exceptionally well adapted and a purchase was made. The truant school opened with a small enrollment, and for many years after several of the cities and towns of Essex county did not approve of the institution.

Over the past few years, however, a radical change has taken place in public sentiment throughout Essex county, as the authorities appreciate the good results already attained by the school.

Since the school opened, 706 boys have been committed, of whom 73 are now enrolled, and 50 per cent. since last spring.

The mission of the school is to reform boys by kind treatment and to give useful instruction in books and manual labor. Already the school has accomplished much good as a large number of men who are now earning their living and leading exemplary lives will attest.

Under the provisions of chapter 220 of the acts of 1904, the institution is now exclusively under the management and control of the county commissioners. Under the law a boy between 7 and 14 years of age, who willfully and habitually absents himself from school shall be deemed an habitual truant, and unless placed on probation, may upon complaint be committed to a county truant school.

Most of the boys committed to the school are readily conform to the rules and regulations and prove apt scholars, showing that their great need was parental influence before commitment.

TROUBLE OVER PLANS FOR NEW COURT-HOUSE.

The county commissioners met yesterday noon at Salem and before they adjourned they were full of trouble that cropped out in regard to the proposed new court house at Salem, which it said will cost $250,000. About a dozen members of the labor unions were present at the meeting and they submitted a petition to the commissioners requesting that in the award of contracts for new court house on Federal street in that city stipulate that none but union laborers be permitted to work on the structure and none but union material be used.

The material be used. Chairman Bates of the commission informed them that the request would be considered. After the delegation had left attention was called to the special act of the legislature authorizing the construction of the building. It specially prohibits the use of any contract or material to any person firm or corporation and requires that the competitor shall be open to all. It also makes the commission of the court house equally a power with the county commissioners.

In addition to the request of the labor unions, the commissioners have their difficult problem to solve.

Trouble is already in evidence over the 16 plans for the proposed structure, which is estimated to cost $250,000. They will be put on exhibition in the probate courtroom today and remain open for inspection two weeks. Last night the county commissioners made an arrangement with the architect who designed the extension to the courthouse in this city in advance to prepare plans for a courthouse in Salem.

The original act authorizing the purchase of land for the court building was drawn up to the effect that the county commissioners might have suitable plans prepared. At the time it was stated by the commissioners that they would reserve $2000 for plans. They so stated when buying the estates on Federal and Bridge streets. They had plans prepared for a courthouse and exhibited them in Salem, and a copy was published last summer.

The act passed last winter provided that competitive plans should be called for by a special commission, consisting of the judge of probate, the register of probate and the register of deeds. The county commissioners called and submitted and will be on view today.

With them was a plan submitted by Architect George G. Adams of this city and with it a letter to the commission, which in substance is that he prepared those plans in accordance with a contract made with the county commissioners, and he is understood to contend that the county must take his plans and pay for them.

There is a rumor that an effort is being made to complicate the scheme for a new courthouse, so as to require another act of the legislature and overturn the present one requiring the sanction of the special commission to everything that is done.

UNSATISFACTORY REWARD.

Stingy old lady—Ah, my dear man! My shawl for which I advertised! Man (at the door)—Yes, and fur which you offered a reward fur. Stingy old lady—Yes, my dear, but won't the reward you get in heaven be enough for you?

Man—Yes, missus, but if it comes I'll deal in the hereafter, you won't need this shawl where you're going.—Baltimore American.

ALL FOR STUBBS.

Balle Waggener of Atchinson, who wouldn't mind facing the Kansas gubernatorial barrier some day, was in the city one day recently. Mr. Waggener wasn't talking much politics.

"In Kansas just now," he said, "we're all watching Mr. Stubbs. We're all for him, too, republicans and democrats alike."

"For what, for governor?" was asked.

"Naw," replied Mr. Waggener "for king of Norway. President of the United States, whichever he wants."—Kansas City Times.

"Brazz tells me he got mixed up in a quarrel yesterday."

"Did he eat the best of it?"

"Of course; otherwise he wouldn't have got anything about it."—Philadelphia Press.

Scrofula

Is very often acquired, though generally inherited. Bad hygiene, foul air, impure water, are among its causes. It is called "the soil for tubercles," and where it is allowed to remain tuberculous or consumption is pretty sure to take root.

REALLY USEFUL MAN.

A handy man is very useful around a house. John Barker was one of these useful gentlemen. His amiable wife once asked him to hang a picture she had purchased for the parlor, and he had said that he would do it "in a jiffy."

"You just get me the cord and a picture hook," he said to his wife. "And the servant girl to stand on one of the parlor chairs. Got that cord? Just measure off about the right length and fasten it in those little things at the side.

"There, now; there's your picture hung up, and no fuss about it. The difference between us men and you women is that, when we have any thing to do, we do it, and don't talk all day about it!"

HE WAS A PHILOSOPHER.

"I hear that your country home was hit by lightning and burned," said Smithers to the philosopher Jollibeach.

"Yes it made quite a blaze and it was not insured for a penny," said the philosopher; "but you know the sufferer's reason is almost over anyway."

"That's true," said his friend sympathetically. "Still, you seem to have had hard luck in another direction."

"O yes," said the philosopher. Burglars swooped in on my town residence recently, took all the family plate and looted the house."

"It doesn't seem to pay to annoy you any?"

"What is the use of worrying? The robbery made little difference to me, for I lost my fortune in Wall street recently and I couldn't continue to live in the style I formerly did."

"Well, well, well, you certainly are an optimist, old man. But tell me, is an optimist's account true that your wife is suing you for divorce?"

"Yes," answered Jollibeach, smilingly. "You know I haven't soon enough now to boost her social aspirations."

"That's just what George Golfer said on the links this morning. He was telling me how he beat you three straight games of golf with a score of 10."

"Wow," yelled Jollibeach, getting purple in the face. "The liar! The scoundrel! Let me at him and I'll soon teach him to injure my golfing reputation. Wow!"—N. Y. Press.

CHICAGO GIRL'S GREAT FEAT IN THE ALPS.

From the Chicago Tribune. A Chicago girl recently accomplished the most remarkable feat in mountain climbing ever achieved by a woman in the Swiss Alps. The girl is Miss Edith Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Baker. The feat was the ascent of the Breithorn, 15,777 ft. in 24 hours with only a single guide.

Many other women have attempted the ascent of the Breithorn, but all of them have been obliged by the rigors of the climb to take 2 days. Miss Baker distanced several parties of women making the leisurely ascent, and, spurning a night's sleep, she reached the summit in the forenoon, and she descended at the end of the forenoon to Zermatt early in the morning.

Before attempting the Breithorn Miss Baker climbed the Riffelhorn from the Gorner glacier. This ascent is an easy one, but to give it some excitement the girl descended to the glacier, where the rock work is rough. Here her foot slipped and she dangled at the end of the protecting rope until the guide drew her up to the precipice.

PAID FOR BEING PERSONAL.

"You must find that impediment in your speech rather inconvenient at times," Mr. Biggs?

"O, no, everybody has his little peculiarity. Stammering is mine; what is y-yours?"

"Well, really, I am not aware that I have any."

"Do you stir your tea with your right hand?"

"Why, yes, of course."

"W-h-well that is y-your p-peculiarity; most people u-use a t-teaspoon."—Stray Stories.

SURE TO MEET THEM.

Mrs. Stubb—I would like to meet some of my acquaintances today without going to the trouble of visiting their houses.

Lodge Deputy, William S. Bentley of Lawrence, assisted by Ray Cole of Andover as installing marshal and Robert Lowe as deputy marshal, installed the newly elected officers of Ballard Vale Lodge, No. 105, last Monday evening.

The reports of the several officers and committees showed the lodge to be in a very flourishing condition.

The first number in the Bradley Course was given last Wednesday evening consisting of a concert by the Weber Male Quartet composed of A. C. Prescott, 1st tenor; C. H. Woods, baritone; A. F. Cole, 2nd tenor; W. E. Davidson, bass, assisted by Miss Ethel Batting, reader. The singing by the quartet was very fine their harmony and artistic rendering of their selections well meriting the many encores they received.

The bass solo by W. E. Davidson deserves special mention. The readings by Miss Batting were very realistic and her impersonations proved her an A 1 artist in her profession.

WILLIAM HICKEY.

William Hickey died at his home in Lowell last Wednesday of spinal meningitis after an illness of only 24 hours.

The deceased was well known in this town and vicinity. He was a ball player of exceptional ability, besides being a fine pitcher he was able to play a strong game in any of the other positions of the team. He played a star game on the local nine for three years. He also played this year with the champion amateur team of Lowell, as well as playing several games with the strong E. Frank Lewis team of Lawrence. He was a general favorite wherever he went and all his Vale friends sincerely mourn his loss.

SKILFUL BEGGING.

There are bungling beggars who working a given territory, make the mistake of asking twice in a day from the same man; there are others who kneer eye, who not only avoid such blunders, but who may ply their calling with grace as well as discernment.

A man who was walking quickly along a Harlem street saw ahead, leaning against a fence post, a beggar who accosted him as he passed. Keeping on at the same quick gate, the man reaches in his pocket for a nickel. The man leaning feebly against the fence post was strong enough to overtake the quick-moving man and get the nickel.

In the afternoon, in the next street, the same man met the same beggar, now transparently a beggar, the two meeting this time head on, coming from opposite directions. The man was curious to know whether this beggar would strike him again, or at him pass.

He turned out to be a man of iron and self-restraint. As the two approached the beggar saw him and identified him from afar. As they passed, each holding his way the beggar had the grace to say again, as he had said in the morning:

"Gentleman, I thank you."

He was a beggar who put some thought into his business, and to whom really there was some pleasure in giving.—New York Sun.

THE HALF-DOLLAR MUSIC SERIES

A unique edition and one that will be of interest to all music lovers, whether teachers or students, is the "Half-Dollar Music Series," published by the Oliver Ditson Company.

It consists of twenty-six different books, each containing sixty or more pages of music of proven acceptability. Eleven volumes of this series are for piano solo, some being in the very easiest grades for beginners.

"Waltzes and Two-steps for the Piano" and "Easy Salon Music," while of a popular order, are not in the same class with the "rag-time" variety, which, we regret to say, is found in many homes where one would expect to find music more in keeping with a higher standard of intelligence. Three books of piano duets are among the number, and other volumes are for the violin, mandolin and other instruments. "Thirty Songs for Children" is a book that will furnish entertainment to the little ones for many a long winter evening.

One of the latest additions to the series and a collection that is sure to meet with favor is "Popular Church Organ Pieces," compiled and edited by Hans Lieber. This book comprises fourteen numbers, all of which are eminently suited to the church service. The registration in every number is clearly indicated and they may be played on two manual organs. Raff's "Cavatina," Chopin's "Nocturne in G Minor," "Consolation" and "Spring Song" by Mendelssohn and "Lovely Appeal" from "The Redemption" are among the contents of this book. One organist writes: "I am much pleased with Popular Church Organ Pieces; the type is good, the form convenient and the pieces therein 'popular' in the best sense of the word."

The prices of the volumes of the series are uniformly 50 cents, as its title
